Healthy Intentions, Healthy Behaviors

Changes in knowledge and intent:

88%
of all youth and adult participants stated intent to eat more servings of fruits & vegetables following the lessons.

79%
of all adult participants intend to use at least one food resource management strategy. (budgeting).

Changes in behavior:

60%
of parents reported that their child is eating more vegetables.

60%
of teachers report that students are eating more fruits and vegetables in school snacks.

Supporting Communities

In federal fiscal year 2017, FoodWise supported 98 community partners with efforts that resulted in 150 environmental changes. These efforts reached more than 600,000 Wisconsin residents. Changes included:

Increased number of school and community gardens

Increase in use and accessibility of SNAP/electronic benefits transfer (EBT) at five farmers markets

Improvements in school food environments and established school wellness policies

Changes in procurement policies and practices in support of safe and healthy food selections in food banks and pantries

Why it Works

Programs are evidence-based.

The program builds community, leverages university resources and supports community health.

We help make the healthy choice the easy choice.
